Steven M. Grunberg, M.D., an AACR member since 1985, died on Sept. 22, 2013, at the age of 63. He was the current president of the Multinational Association of Supportive Care in Cancer.

Born in Paterson, N.J., on June 5, 1950, Grunberg received his bachelor’s degree at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., and his medical degree at Cornell University Medical College in New York, N.Y. He completed his residency at the University of California, San Francisco, and a medical oncology fellowship at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, Mass. After serving as a faculty member at the University of California, Los Angeles, he became a professor at the University of Vermont Cancer Center in Burlington in 1993.

Grunberg was recognized for his research in cancer treatments and supportive care of patients.

In addition to his AACR membership, Grunberg was a member of the American Society of Clinical Oncology and the New England Clinical Oncology Society, on which he served as a board member and past president.