

Raúl Murillo, Javeriana Oncology Center, San Ignacio University Hospital, Bogotá, Colombia. MD, MPH, Fellow PAHO International Health, PhD. Currently Director of the Javeriana Oncology Center (San Ignacio University Hospital - Bogotá, Colombia), Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Medicine - Pontifical Javeriana University (Bogotá-Colombia), and Senior Visiting Scientist at the International Agency for Research on Cancer. Formerly Director General of the National Cancer Institute of Colombia, the official advisor of the Ministry of Health for developing and implementing cancer prevention and control policies. About 20 years of cancer research with emphasis on early diagnosis of breast and cervical cancer in low- and middle-income countries. Collaborative external consultant for institutions such as the Breast Health Global Initiative, American Association for Cancer Research, American Society of Clinical Oncology, World Health Organization, and Pan American Health Organization.